Experience the wild beauty and traditions of the Camargue through a stay immersed in one of Southern France's most emblematic natural landscapes. Designed for travellers seeking authenticity, tranquillity and local heritage, this accommodation offers a unique opportunity to discover the region's cultural and environmental richness.

Located near Arles, within the Camargue Regional Natural Park and close to the best view points in Camargue, this traditional shepherd's cottage has been carefully restored in keeping with local architectural heritage. Surrounded by nature and facing Camargue horses, the independent cottage combines rustic charm with modern comfort in a peaceful setting.

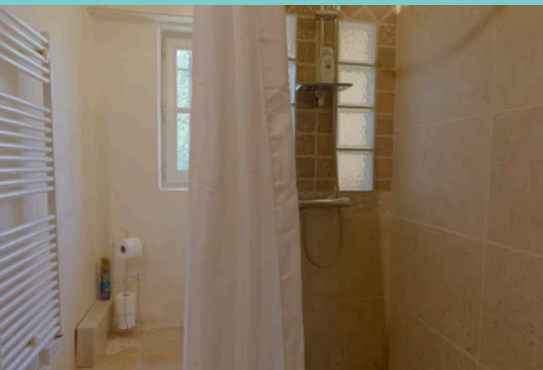

The accommodation features a cosy living area with a fully equipped kitchen, a fireplace, one double bedroom and a closed mezzanine sleeping area with 2 single beds. Outside, guests can enjoy a private garden with two terraces – one sunny and one shaded – as well as outdoor furniture and a barbecue.

Rooted in a family-run estate committed to preserving Camargue traditions for six generations, here is an opportunity to meet locals committed to caring for nature! The property carries the "Valeurs Parc Naturel Régional" sustainable tourism label, recognising its commitment to local heritage, environmental preservation and responsible tourism practices.

Bed linen is included and electric vehicle charging point is available on site. Combining nature, comfort and cultural immersion, this experience offers a meaningful introduction to the authentic spirit of Camargue.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Weather & climate

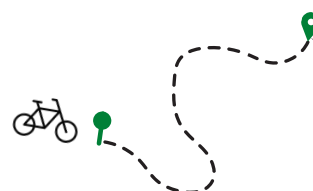

September in Southern France generally offers warm, sunny days and mild evenings. In Provence and Camargue, temperatures can still be pleasantly warm, but evenings may feel cooler, especially in rural areas.

What to pack

We recommend comfortable walking shoes for cycling and exploring, light breathable clothing (cotton/linen), and a few warmer layers for the evening. A hat, sunglasses and sunscreen are essential for daytime activities.

Travel documents & essentials

Although travel is within the EU, please ensure you carry valid ID or passport, travel insurance details, and all travel documents related to your itinerary.
